Gisement de Bauxite et d'Aluminium

Actuellement, la bauxite est le minerai d'aluminium le plus important servant, à quelques exceptions près, de base à la quasi-totalité de l'industrie mondiale de l'aluminium.

La BAUXITE est un minerai d'aluminium constitué d'hydrates d'oxydes d'aluminium, d'oxydes de fer et de silicium, de matières premières pour la fabrication de matériaux réfractaires contenant de l'alumine et d'oxyde d'aluminium. La teneur en oxyde d'aluminium dans les bauxites industrielles varie de 40% à 60% et plus. En plus des composants principaux, le minerai contient environ 15 noms d'impuretés rares, telles que l'anadium, le chrome, l'étain, le béryllium, le scandium, le zinc, le cuivre, le baryum et le plomb.

Points clés

Plasticité
Résistance à la chaleur
Faible densité
Conductivité thermique
Conductivité électrique
Résistance à la corrosion

28% à 60% (et même plus) de la masse du corps minéralisé de bauxite est de l'aluminium. Les riches résidus d'impuretés permettent d'extraire d'autres métaux non ferreux de la bauxite. L'oxyde d'aluminium obtenu à partir de l'oxyde d'aluminium bauxite  $Al_2O_3$  est utilisé comme matériau de moulage et fondant métallurgique. Les matériaux réfractaires contenant de l'alumine sont très résistants aux charges thermiques et mécaniques.

Zone de dépôt

Le gisement est situé dans la partie côtière sud-est du lac Kusmurn, couvre partiellement la rive du lac. Il se compose de plusieurs corps minéralisés de forme irrégulière situés sur une superficie de 26,2 km<sup>2</sup>.

La superficie des corps minéralisés est de 3,2 km<sup>2</sup>.

Ressources minières

Selon les informations géologiques, les réserves de la mine s'élèvent à environ 8 millions de tonnes de bauxite avec une teneur moyenne de 51 à 53% d'oxyde d'aluminium. Selon les experts, la mine contient environ 40 millions de tonnes de réserves non confirmées de minerai de bauxite, ce qui caractérise la valeur élevée de sa quantité réelle

Lieu de dépôt

- Eau à proximité du site
- L'impasse ferroviaire est à environ 500 mètres
- Électricité de toute capacité
- La gare est à environ 7 KM
- Surface plate
